

The Job Journal Advantage

California Job Journal was established in 1982 as an innovative alternative to traditional job-search methods. Designed to be a window on the evolving employment market, Job Journal is one of the most informative and comprehensive resources for anyone wanting up-to-date information on promising fields and available jobs in Northern California. Each biweekly edition is packed with informative articles and tips addressing the complex issues facing jobseekers in their search for rewarding employment and a fulfilling career.

The Job Journal encourages employers to provide much more detail in their job listings, which enables jobseekers to screen themselves and reduce the amount of wasted time and effort spent chasing positions that they later discover they don't want or aren't qualified for. Job Journal staffers work hard to ensure jobseekers' energies can be focused on getting job offers instead of gathering job information.

The Job Journal is often recommended as one of the most helpful resources for conducting an effective job search and making smart career decisions. Many readers confirm it was instrumental in their success in finding the right job with a great employer. Their subscription paid for itself many times over.
